

Changes to Argus US products report & data effective 1 September 2006

Argus will publish two overlapping sets of gasoline prices during 1-15 September to reflect the shift from 9 RVP to 13.5 RVP gasoline in the US northeast. The assessments on p1 of the US Products report will remain 9 RVP until 16 September. The 13.5 RVP assessments will be published further back in the report until 16 September when they will be moved to the front page. Atlantic Report subscribers will see the topmost Atlantic coast tables reflecting the lower RVP until 16 September and will find the supplemental tables near the end of the report. The assessments affected include all waterborne, barge, and pipeline gasoline assessments for New York, Boston, Buckeye, and Laurel markets.

In addition, Laurel pipeline 7.8 RVP supplemental assessments will terminate after 15 September. Colonial pipeline and USGC waterborne 9 RVP supplemental assessments terminate when the Colonial 51st cycle becomes prompt. Questions should be referred to Daniel Massey at +1 713 968 0010, daniel.massey@argusmediagroup.com.

Changes to the data file

To support the above changes, Argus is introducing two transitional series for each US northeast gasoline grade affected. One assessment will reflect the summer RVP grade and the other the winter RVP grade. These assessments will overlap in spring and fall for a short period, but will stop whilst out of season. They are therefore non continuous series. The existing gasoline series will be a continuous series reflecting the current season grade with a transition from winter to summer occurring on 20th March (or first trading day thereafter) and from summer to winter on 5th September (or first trading day thereafter).

Note that the summer data for 2006 will retrospectively start from 27 March and will be available upon request from 1 September 2006 as an historic data file. Requests should be sent to datahelp@argusmediagroup.com

Existing continuous series, winter/summer basis switch 20 March, summer/winter basis switch 5 September
